

a vibration-decoupling means attaching said skeleton parts to each other, said vibration-decoupling means acting in all directions and at least largely isolating said steering wheel rim in terms of vibrations from said at least one section of said spoke.

7. (Amended) The vehicle steering wheel according to claim 4, wherein said bearing comprises a pin, a receiving shell for said pin and an elastic equalizing element between said receiving shell and said pin.